

Connect your way

In Okuna, it's easy to make the social connections you want, no matter what your social style. You aren't limited to one style. It's a mix and match situation!

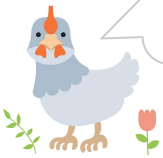

I'm interested in your public posts, but I don't plan to share private posts with you.

I'm interested in topics. I don't care as much for posts about individuals.

I want to share posts privately with people I know.

I want to see your food posts, but only your food posts.

I share my art, fiction, or philosophical musings. Not everyone "gets" me and that's okay with me.

Different ways to connect on Okuna

Join a community to meet people who share your interests.

Community

Don't see a community for a topic you love? Start your own!

Follow someone to see their public posts in your timeline.

Follow

If you use Twitter, following will be familiar to you.

Connect with someone to share posts privately with them.

Connect

Connecting is like "friending" on other social networks.

You can follow someone and connect with them.

Sort people you follow into lists.

Lists

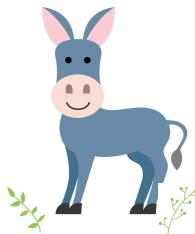

Create lists for "Photographers" or "Authors" - anyone who shares content publicly.

Group your connections into circles.

Circles

Circles like "Family" or "Coworkers" let you interact privately with these groups.

Did someone's post spark a response in you? Tell them!

Comment

Start a conversation!

Short on time? Use emoji to leave quick response.

React

Don't miss the dancing banana emoji!

